

Unique Door Panels at the Bignucolo Residence, Services de santé de Chapleau Health Services

Residents at the Bignucolo Residence are getting their doors personalized with large decal made to look so real it's hard to tell the doors are not completely new. The door panels will help residents distinguish one door from another, and not lose their way. It really changes the whole feel of the environment when you walk through the halls and see that every door looks different, it looks like a real neighbourhood.

The departments at SSCHS are also working collaboratively to choose a variety of colour schemes for the painting revitalization project in the Bignucolo Residence. The purpose of the project is to create a more home-like atmosphere for the residents of long term care. Based on resident, family, and community feedback updating the colour schemes and the installation of the decorative door decals will create a less hospital like feel for the home.

Left to Right: Karen Fortin, LTC Team Leader; Padraic Taaffe, Support Services Manager; and Jamie Fiaschetti, Director of Clinical Services.

Left to Right: Natasha Comte, Interim Chief Executive Officer SSCHS; Jérémy Stevenson, Chief Executive Officer, North East Local Health Integration Network

Jeremy visited communities across the North East for a week in November. He toured hospitals and met face-to-face with system partners and saw the good work underway as well as the gaps in services in some communities. He also heard what partners want to focus on, moving forward, to improve the health and wellness of people living in their community. The visits were also a chance to follow up on discussions that were started as part of the North East LHIN's IHSP engagements, which informed our draft three priorities for the next three years – System Integration, Home and Community Care, and Mental Health and Addictions.

Supported by:

